

Social Media Policy for Uzima in Our Hands

Uzima in Our Hands charity in the UK is totally dependant on it's good name to raise funds to support Uzima Children Orphan Centre. It uses social media and a website to promote itself.

It is the policy of Uzima In Our Hands therefore to protect its good name for the good of all the staff and children at the Centre who depend on it's funding.

If an employed member of staff at Uzima Children Orphan Centre should bring the Centre or charity into disrepute by posting something on social media that damages its good name then the charity will recommend that this member of staff be disciplined and possibly face losing their job. The discipline will be based on how damaging the post/message is to the charity and if done by a proxy account then the police will be informed and every effort will be made to track down the offender and follow it up through the law.

The trustees of Uzima In Our Hands charity's decision is final.